	1:30 PM	Arrive at JR Kyoto
	1:40 PM	Drop off luggage at RESI Stay Reception	RESI Stay Reception	Their shuttle bus runs from 2:15 PM to 7:45 PM
	1:45 PM	Lunch at nearby place if time allows	Honke Daiichi Asahi Honten (nearby Kyoto station)	Few choices: Honke Daiichi Asahi Honten (salary-man ramen restaurant, long queue expected) Yoshizou Curry (salary-man curry katsu rice, but long queue expected)
	3:30 PM	Enter teamLabs Kyoto	teamLabs Kyoto
	6:30 PM	Depart, and walk to RESI Stay Reception	RESI Stay Reception	Shuttle bus runs from 2:15 PM to 7:45 PM, on demand service
	6:45 PM	Bus shuttle service to RESI Stay Tsubaki	RESI Stay Tsubaki
	6:50 PM	Check-in at RESI Stay Tsubaki
			Nishiki Market
	7:30 PM	Dinner at Nishiki Market or Kawaramachi area	Ichiran Ramen at Kawaramachi CoCo at Kawaramachi Tendon Makino Kyoto Teramachi Honke Daiichi-Asahi - Karasuma	A lot of choices: Ichiran ramen at Karawamachi, CoCo at Kawaramachi area, Tendon Makino Kyoto Teramachi, Honke Daiichi-Asahi - Karasuma (salaryman nearby JR Kyoto, but different branch)
	10:00 PM	Izakaya (if not tired, and want to explore)	Captain1 Kyoto Hitomebore Kyoto Kiku	Many choices for Izakaya: Captain1, Hitomebore Kyoto, Kiku
	11:00 PM	Return to RESI Stay Tsubaki		Get ready for Kiyomizu-dera & Kimono rental
	6:30 AM	Wake up
	7:00 AM	Depart to Hikiniku to Come for reservation, while also getting kombini breakfast		To get a reservation for dinner time, try to go there by 7:30 or 8:00 AM. Not everyone has to go, perhaps 2-3 people is enough.
	8:30 AM	Depart for Hairmake & Kimono Rental First Kiyomizu Shop	Hairmake & Kimono Rental First Kiyomizu Shop	If we rent kimono, I feel they are okay, a lot of good reviews in Klook, and quite cheap as well (Only about RM102 for women's komon kimono, and RM96 for men's kimono)
	9:00 AM	Arrive at Kimono Rental First Kiyomizu Shop		For girls, there will be complimentary hair service, for guys there won't be though. I foresee this will take around 30 minutes to 1 hour for everyone to get ready.
	10:00 AM	Depart to Kiyomizu-dera Temple		Mainly to take pictures and walk up to the Kiyomizu-dera Temple. There is not much we can do about the crowd at this point because we could only head there after we get the kimono.
		SUGGESTED KIYOMIZU ITINERARY	obviously the timing is up to you. If you are interested in the significance of each spot, I have added extra info.
	10:15 AM	Start at left of Nio-mon gate, shrine for Kannon and Jizo		Two statues, Kannon and Jizo.
	10:20 AM	Go through Nio-mon gate (main entrance)	Nio-mon Gate	Two statues guard the steps leading to the gate. Inside the gate on the left and right, there are "Deva kings" which are the "Nio". They keep Kiyomizu-dera temple safe along with guardian animals.
	10:25 AM	The right after Nio-mon gate, a stone-lamp of a tiger, left of the main stairs of Nishimon, Shoun Seiryu		The stone-lamp is special, where no matter where you stand, the eyes of the tiger will follow and look at you regardless of where you stand and look at the stone lamp. There's also Shoun Seiryu, a dragon statue next to the stairs of Nishimon
	10:30 AM	Climb up the stairs to the West Gate, Three-Story Pagoda	Kiyomizu-dera, Sanjunoto Pagoda	Some significance of this West Gate (right side when you climb up the stairs) is that, direction of West is the direction of the Pure Land, the paradise of the Buddha Amida-bha. Other than that, at this elevation, you can view the entire city of Kyoto. It's a beautiful scenery. For the Sanjunoto Pagoda (three story pagoda), you will realize the corners of the roof, 2 of the corners (Southwest and Northwest), you will find demons. However, at the Southeast corner, you will find a dragon (strongly associated with water, this dragon was constructed there to protect the three story pagoda from fire).
	10:45 AM	Go down the stairs to Restorer's Hall	Kiyomizu-dera Chukodo (Restorer's Hall)	This is supposedly a Shinto shrine. Previously it was common to see Shinto shrines on Buddhist temples, and vice versa, however due to modern policies they ought to become separate however this shinto shrine still remain on the grounds of Kiyomizu-dera, a buddhist temple
	10:50 AM	Keep walking to the Thousand Stone Buddhas	Thousand Stone Buddhas	All these statues represent buddhas and bodhisattvas. Few hundreds of them, why all in one place? In the 19th century, there was a policy that separated Shinto and Buddhism, and even a movement to abolish Buddhism, many people tried to burn down Buddhist books, a lot of statues were destroyed, Kiyomizu-dera Temple at one point had 90% of its lands confiscated. These statues, or they call it, the Buddhist "images", are brought to Kiyomizu-dera Temple as a safe place from the movement.
	11:00 AM	The sights of Joju-in Temple	Joju-in Temple	There's a nice pond here to just sit there and relax. Joju-in temple, next to it, there's the Moon Garden, but this Moon Garden is only open in Spring and Autumn.
	11:30 AM	Walk towards Tamurado Shrine	Tamuraado Shrine	Apparently this guy, Tamuramaro, he's considered one of the founders of Kiyomizu-dera Temple, along with his wife they are enshrined here. The other founder of Kiyomizu-dera Temple, Enchin, is the one who would discover the Otowa waterfall later.
Day 2 11/6/2026 Kiyomizu-dera Temple, Kimono Rental	11:45 AM	Head towards the Main Hall of Kiyomizu-dera, or Hondo.	Todoroki-mon Gate	Admission ticket is 500 yen, ticket counter is nearby, at Admission Ticket Counter. The gate of entrance towards the Hondo is called Todoroki-mon Gate. Hondo is at the end of this hall, which is 14m long.
	12:00 PM	Towards the left of the Hondo, Hondo's window / churns in the wood.		Theree are grooves underneath the windows of the Hondo building, these represent the worshippers's path as they prayed to the Kannon. They use bamboo sticks to circle around the Hondo hall, and every round they passed, they will drop one bamboo stick. They do this at night.
	12:15 PM	Large and Small Metal Staffs		Two metal staffs (one small and one large) are along the Todoroki-mon gate, right before you enter the Hondo. They say if you are able to lift both staffs, your wish will come true. You have to shake the rings first before lifting.
	12:20 PM	The god of wealth, Daikokuten (Hondo)		Inside the main hall, to the left, you will see Daikokuten, a deity or god of wealth. People drop money and pray to share the Daikokuten's luck.
	12:30 PM	Visit the Thousand Hand Kannon		The principal image of Kiyomizu-dera, eleven-headed thousand-armed kannon bodhisattva.
	12:45 PM	Kiyomizu-dera Stage		Here, many many visitors will crowd here. Taking outward facing pictures is fine, but taking pictures inside is not allowed. There is a legend of Princess Sakura, and a monk called Seigen. It was love at first sight for monk Seigen, but Princess Sakura liked someone else. It was said that even though Seigen died, his ghost still hunted Sakura-hime, and Sakura-hime in the legend jumped off the stage of Kiyomizu-dera using an umbrella.
	1:00 PM	Small Kannon	Small Kannon ぬれて観音	There's a small kannon on the shrine next to Amida. To pray to this Kannon, there is a special way to do it. You first have to get the ladle with water, pour the water on top of the image of kannon. By pouring water on top of the Kannon, you wash away all your troubles and sins. The water here flows from Mount Otowa, and is considered as sacred. Water is held at very high significance at Kiyomizu-dera Temple, it is said that this Kannon is the reincarnation of water.
	1:10 PM	Walk along the walkway, for a view of Kiyomizu-dera Stage		This is known as the view from Okuno-in. Many people take picture from this point, of the Kiyomizu-dera Temple, you will see the supporting pillars below. As more people visit the Kiyomizu-dera Temple, to worship the Kannon, the stage was eventually erected.
	1:15 PM	Walk down the path along Sakura Road.		It's called Sakura Road because if you come in spring, all the cherry blossoms will be left and right of you.
	1:20 PM	Visit the Pagoda down south	Koyasu-no-to Pagoda	A shrine for Kannon, who helps women give birth to children safely.
	1:25 PM	Walk to Otowa Waterfall	Otowa Waterfall	Sacred water flowing from Mt. Otowa. These water use the water to bath, and pray using the water. People even drink the water. You first climb the stairs to the shrine, pay your respect, and then grab one of the ladies (sterilized ones), and you choose a single stream of the otowa waterfall to drink from. Fill up your ladle, you drink it.
	1:45 PM	Walk to monument of Aterui and Moré	Monument of Aterui and Moré	The names of Aterui and Moré carved on a monument. These were the rivals of the founder, Tamuramaro. In the 9th century, the emperor ordered Tamuramaro to subdue both Aterui and More's forces. At the end of the battle, both men had surrendered to Tamuramaro and they were executed. However, Tamuramaro respected both men as strong leaders, so this monument was erected as a token of compassion by the founder.
	1:50 PM	Walk up to the Hojo-ike Pond	Hojo-ike Pond (放生池)	A nice pond where you can see Kiyomizu-dera Temple reflected on the pond. The water is pure.
	2:00 PM	Lunch nearby Ninenzaka, ramen store	Japanese Noodle ISSUN BOUSHI	This ramen store is one that Ashley's brother or friend recommended.
	3:00 PM	Quick stop at matcha store	GOKAGO	To relax and eat some nice matcha deserts. If GOKAGO is too crowded, and you have a matcha craving, can head to Hatoya
	4:00 PM	Free and easy around Ninenzaka, Sannenzaka, Chawanzaka.	Hatoya Ryooyousha Kiyomizu	Ryooyousha Kiyomizu
	5:00 PM	Return our kimonos at Hairmake & Kimono Rental First Kiyomizu Shop	Hairmake & Kimono Rental First Kiyomizu Shop	Hope it's not too crowded, but Ninenzaka and Sannenzaka is the one with the mochi-mochi store.
	6:30 PM	Return to RESI Stay Tsubaki, rest or freshen up
	7:30 PM	Dinner at Hikiniku to Come (IF CAN RESERVE)
	7:30 PM	Dinner at Nishiki Market or Kawaramachi area	Nishiki Market Ichiran Ramen at Kawaramachi CoCo at Kawaramachi Tendon Makino Kyoto Teramachi Honke Daiichi-Asahi - Karasuma	A lot of choices: Ichiran ramen at Karawamachi, CoCo at Kawaramachi area, Tendon Makino Kyoto Teramachi, Honke Daiichi-Asahi - Karasuma (salaryman nearby JR Kyoto, but different branch)
	10:00 PM	Izakaya or strolling around pontocho alley.	Captain1 Kyoto Hitomebore Kyoto Kiku	Many choices for Izakaya: Captain1, Hitomebore Kyoto, Kiku
		OR
	10:00 PM	Visit the streets of Gion and Yasaka Shrine	Yasaka Shrine Hanamikoji Street Gion walk	It's a whole different vibe at night, and you will see Geishas on their way to their appointment. It is rude to stop a Geisha from going to their destination (by taking pic with them etc)
	11:00 PM	Return to RESI Stay Tsubaki

Day 3 12/6/2026 Arashiyama Bamboo Forest and Kinkaku-ji	5:00 AM	Wake up
	6:00 AM	Get some breakfast at convenience store
	6:30 AM	Depart to Arashiyama Bamboo Forest
	7:30 AM	Aim to reach Arashiyama
		SUGGESTED ARASHIYAMA ITINERARY
	7:30 AM	Start exploring around Arashiyama Bamboo Forest	Arashiyama Bamboo Forest	People say the crowd can really make this a really shitty journey, so people aim to reach at like, 6:00 AM - 7:00 AM. Around this area, there's Gyoji temple, Adashino Nenbutsuji Temple. For less crowds, you can go to Okochi Sanso Garden, or Arashiyama Monkey Park Iwatayama to see some monkeys. To go to Arashiyama, there are a few options: To take the Hankyu line at Kyoto Kawaramachi, or to take the bus to JR Kyoto and take it to Arashiyama.
	8:30 AM	Walk along Ogura Pond, up North to saga-torimoto	Saga-torimoto preserved street
	9:00 AM	Enter Adashino Nenbutsuji	Adashino Nenbutsuji Temple
	10:00 AM	Walk to Otagi Nenbutsuji	Otagi Nenbutsuji
	11:00 AM	Grab a matcha at coffee java.java	coffee java.java (Japone Coffee)
	11:45 AM	Grab some pottery souvenir at Kotouen	Kotouen
	12:00 PM	If extra time, can consider Kimono Forest	Kimono Forest
		Option 1: Kinkaku-ji Temple
	12:00 PM	Depart from Saga-Arashiyama JR station to Kinkaku-ji-michi		From Saga-Arashiyama JR station, take the JR line to Emmachi Station, and take the Bus 205. Take care not to go to the other direction.
	1:00 PM	Have lunch nearby	Sea Bream Rice MAKI	Lunch place, can eat whatever that looks great. Found an affordable sea-food bowl ramen restaurant that's nearby Kinkaku-ji. May need to queue as there are lots of students that visit Kinkaku-ji that visit here. One of the best local options here.
	2:30 PM	Visit Kinkaku-ji Temple
	5:00 PM	Return to Central Kyoto / Free and Easy		This night's dinner can be convenience food style dinner as Paul suggested, or can try more of the options within central Kyoto (Kawaramachi area)
		Option 2: Ninenzaka & Kiyomizu-dera Temple
	1:00 PM	Lunch nearby Ninenzaka, ramen store	Japanese Noodle ISSUN BOUSHI	This ramen store is one that Ashley's brother or friend recommended.
	2:00 PM	Walk to Ninenzaka & Sannanzeka	Sannenzaka	It may be very crowded, but it's vintage Kyoto vibes and you have a lot to see.
	3:30 PM	Matcha store nearby Kiyomizu-dera Temple	Ninenzaka	Mochi-mochi is also here, where you can see the famous mochi-making hammer slamming guy
	4:00 PM	May visit Kiyomizu-dera Temple if the crowd is okay	GOKAGQ	On the way up to Kiyomizu-dera temple, there's a matcha store here.
	7:00 PM	Convenience store dinner at RESI Stay Tsubaki	Kiyomizu-dera Temple	On the way up, make sure to pass by Nio-mon Gate.
				Of course, this is if it's not so crowded. Take note, in the summer, Kiyomizu-dera temple closes at 6:00 PM.
				Paul suggested this idea, to have everyone get convenience store dinner, bring it back to the stay.
	9:00 PM	Stroll around Pontocho Alley	Pontocho Alley	Walk along the Kamo river, narrow alleyway walking past wooden machiya houses, has a lot of casual izakayas. I have also saved a few places within the Pontocho alley.
	10:00 PM	Visit the streets of Gion and Yasaka Shrine	Yasaka Shrine	It's a whole different vibe at night, and you will see Geishas on their way to their appointment. It is rude to stop a Geisha from going to their destination (by taking pic with them etc)
	12:00 AM	Return back to RESI Stay Tsubaki	Hanamikoji Street Gion walk	If we managed to visit Kiyomizu-dera Temple in the afternoon, we can visit Fushimi Inari the next day. If not, Kiyomizu-dera Temple the next day.
Day 4 13/6/2026 Fushimi Inari	5:00 AM	Wake up
	6:00 AM	Get some breakfast at convenience store
	6:30 AM	Depart to Fushimi Inari		Take the Keihan Main Line from Kiyomizu-Gojo station (South-bound towards Uji) and head to Fushimi-Inaru station. Will go past 2 or 3 stops.
	7:00 AM	Arrive at Fushimi Inari		Enjoy the hike, the beautiful area with a bunch of souvenir stores, there's even Kyoto-style restaurants. A red torii gate signifies the entrance to the main shrine. A full guide on what to do at Mt. Inari is on another sheet. Personally, I'd do the whole hike because I want to experience the mountain and summit.
	11:00 AM	Finished exploring Fushimi Inari
	11:30 AM	Have lunch nearby Fushimi Inari	Kyoto Shoryu	It seems like on Tabelog, the most famous options nearby Fushimi Inari are unagi rice bowls. If not, there are some affordable ramen or even udon restaurant nearby. Saved few of them here for reference.
			Salmon Noodle Kyoto.
			Inari Myoudai Dohachi
			Fushimi Inari DORAIMON
		Option 1A: Mimuroto-ji (Hydrangea)		This is the route if you want to do more sightseeing, if you like the temples so much that you would go to another city just to visit their temple in the suitable season. Afterwards, there's not much left to do in Uji except for matcha hunting and cafe hopping.
	1:00 PM	Depart from Fushimi Inari to Mimurodo Station		Take the Nara Line from Inari Station, to Kohata Station. Then, at the Kohata Station, take the Uji line and head to Mimuroto Station. Whole thing will take around 50 minutes to 1 hour.
	2:00 PM	Visit Mimuroto-ji Temple (15 minutes walk from Mimurodo Station)		In the current June season, you can visit Mimuroto-ji Temple (also known as the flower temple) for a free-and-easy scenery landmark to view the hydrangeas during the summer season. Admission cost is 1000 yen.
	5:00 PM	Take the train from Mimurodo Station to Uji station, and walk towards center of Uji.		Bear in mind, a lot of the famous matcha stores would've already been closed by the time we finish at Mimuroto-ji Temple. This option is if you want to see hydrangea.
	5:30 PM	Free and easy matcha cafe hopping in Uji.	(有) 旭園製茶所	Found one tea store that opens until 7:30 PM at center of Uji
	6:30 PM	Return to central Kyoto
		Option 1B: Exploring Kamo River with Bikes! (Half Day)		Kyoto is one of the most nicest cities to cycle. I'm thinking, resting until around 4:00 PM, and get ready to cycle and explore Kyoto through cycling. There are so many nice scenic and relaxing cycling paths you can take from South to North of Kyoto, and you can explore many places that public transport will not allow you if you choose to cycle.
	1:00 PM	Depart from Fushimi Inari back to RESI Stay Tsubaki		Once again take the Keihan Main Line from Fushimi-Inari station to Kiyomizu-Gojo
	1:20 PM	Rest for the time being
		Rent bicycles at Kurrutto Park Rent-A-Cycle Gion Shijo	Kurrutto Park Rent-A-Cycle Gion Shijo	The plan is to rent bicycle from this Gion Shijo, a regular bicycle is 1,300 yen for the whole day, electric bicycle is 2,300 yen, and hybrid is 1,800 yen. You however need to reserve it earlier
	3:30 PM	Cycling route stops suggestions: - Kamo river, or kamo-gawa (West bank of the Kamo-gawa) - Stepping Stones at Kojin - Demachi Masugata Shopping Street - Final stop up North at Kyoto Botanical Gardens		Kamo river is the main river that everyone cycles along. It's a beautiful cycling route from South to North. Stepping stone at Kojin is the landmark in the middle of the Kamo river, where people sit there to chill. Demachi Masugata Shopping Street is the street used often in Kyoto animation, and in the anime Tamako Market Kyoto Botanical Garden is a beautiful garden with lots of areas to park our bikes. Few things to take note when cycling in Kyoto: - Cannot cycle side by side - Illegal to cycle at night without using a bicycle light - Kyoto cyclists ride on sidewalks where they exists, so need to use the bell. Ride slowly along the sidewalk and alert pedestrians to clear the way. - Cannot park your bicycle anywhere you like, it will get impounded and you'll have to pay a 3500 yen fine to get it at the storage center. - Have to park at dedicated bicycle parking lot and parking area.
	7:30 PM	Return our bikes at Kurrutto Park Rent-A-Cycle Gion Shijo	Kurrutto Park Rent-A-Cycle Gion Shijo	Alternatively this cycling thing can be done on another day collectively as a group. Since you pay for a day's fee anyways. However, there aren't that many days in Kyoto left. Most things should be done during the day itself, i.e. Nara day trip, Uji day trip, Kiyomizu-dera Temple, etc
	8:00 PM	Free and easy dinner and after dinner :)

OSAKA ITINERARY
Date	Time	Description	URL	Remarks
Day 5 14/6/2026 Osaka Castle, Dotonbori	Anytime before 9:00 AM	Free and easy morning		Nothing planned for this morning.
	9:30 AM	Reach Kyoto Karawamachi		Reach Kyoto Karawamachi station for the Garaku train to Osaka-umeda, train is at 10:41 AM, no reservation can be made, people say it's treated as a normal train.
	10:41 AM	Kyo-train Garaku, depart from Kyoto-kawaramachi, bound for Osaka-umeda
	11:30 AM	Arrive at Osaka-umeda
	11:40 AM	Store luggage in Osaka-Umeda		Was told by Yujing that this is around 1000 yen.
	12:00 PM	Have lunch in Osaka-Umeda area	Unagi Kushiyaki Izumo大問王鰻魚飯 Shin-Umeda Shokudogai Street Watanabe Curry Tempura-no-Yama Umeda Hanshinten	A lot of options nearby, but pretty sure you can see what is there and makan as you like. The Unagi restaurant is famous, but high chance you need to queue.
	1:00 PM	Depart to Osaka Castle	Osakajokoen Station	From Osaka station, you can take the Osaka Loop Line, and admission is apparently 1200 yen. However, Google says their operating hours is only until 5:30 PM.
	1:20 PM	Arrive at Osaka Castle		Take from JR Osaka Station, the JR Osaka Loop Line, to Osakajokoen Station (using clockwise). This is the East side of Osaka castle, and where Google brings you to go if you go to Osaka castle. However, online blogs recommend you to enter Osaka Castle from South West, from a station called Tanimachi Yonchome
	5:00 PM	Return to JR Osaka		Same way from Osakajokoen Station, take Osaka Loop Line but anti-clockwise to head back to JR Osaka.
	5:45 PM	Do some shopping at Gashapon store	Gachapacha no mori Osaka Umeda Chayamachi Store	Nearby Osaka-Umeda is the biggest gashapon store apparently
	7:00 PM	Get some famous crème brulee pie at grenier	grenier Umeda Branch	They close at 8:00 PM, a lot of guides recommend their sweet crème brulee!
	7:30 PM	Collect back our luggage, and head to Apartment 11	Kuromon Market	Goal is to self-check in, and then have some dinner around Kuromon area.
			Chitose Udon	To head to Apartment 11, you need to go to the Umeda station for Osaka Metro (M), and take the Midosuji Line to Namba (Osaka Metro). Looks like it costs 240 yen.
			Utooyo Utooyo (Unagi Restaurant)	On the way to Apartment 11, you will pass by Namba stores, so you will see a lot of good stuff.
	8:30 PM	Dotonbori!	Glico Sign Dotonbori (Running Man)	For the first day, we'll do free and easy exploring of dotonbori, see whatever you want to makan you just makan only. You can even choose not to makan earlier and just go Dotonbori.
	10:00 PM	Return to Apartment 11	Apartment 11 Kuromon
	11:00 PM	If bored, can go to Round 1		Entertainment center at Osaka, 8 floors of entertainment!
Day 6 15/6/2026 Nara Day Trip, Free and Easy Night	7:30 AM	Wake up
	8:30 AM	Depart from Apartment 11 to JR Nara!		We have to get on the Yamatoji rapid trains, which we can go from Namba -> Shin-imamiya, then Shin-imamiya take the Yamatoji Line to Local Nara. Alternatively, we can take the AONIYOSHI train, which requires reservation. This train will take us from Osaka-Namba to Kyoto in a sightseeing train. Few details from https://www.ticket.kintetsu.co.jp/vs/en/e-ticket/ , the AONIYOSHI train departs from Osaka-Namba at 9:10 AM and arrive at Kintetsu-Nara at 9:45 AM. Currently still have availability, so we can still book for the 9 of us should we decide we want to go to Nara. Best to book this soon as this is a limited scenery train. Fares are ¥1410 for adult for Osaka-Namba -> Kintetsu-Nara, and can take the salon seat (for 3 to 4 pax)
	10:00 AM	Arrive At JR Nara or Kintetsu Nara		Depends if we take JR train or AONIYOSHI train
		SUGGESTED NARA ITINERARY	obviously the timing is up to you. If you are interested in the significance of each spot, I have added extra info.
	10:30 AM	Walk up to Nandaimon Gate	Nandaimon Gate	This is the famous entrance to Todai-ji Temple. You have two guardian statues here.
	10:45 AM	Walk to Mirror Pond, or Todaiji Kagami-like Pond	Todaiji Kagami-like Pond	Here is a serene, scenic spot, reflection of the Todaiji Temple like a mirror.
	11:00 AM	Walk up to the gates of Todai-ji (left)	Todaiji Chumon (Central Gate)	Central gate is not always open, so we have to go to the left, where the ticket counter is. Here, we have to pay an admission fee of 800 yen to enter the Todaiji Temple, with the Great Buddha inside.
	11:15 AM	Walk up to the Great Buddha Hall	Great Buddha Hall	This Great Buddha hall or the main hall is damn big. Great Buddha is chilling inside. Some landmark on the way inside, you can have a look at the Octagonal Lantern. There'll be a lot of deers around this area.
	11:30 AM	Enjoy traditional Nara sweets on shops nearby		Some items worth trying are: - Warabi starch mochi
	12:30 PM	Walk up to Cat Stairs	Nekodan (Cat Stairway)
	12:45 PM	Walk up to Karakuni Shinto Shrine	Karakuni Shinto Shrine	This shrine is meant to be a tribute to the Korean immigrants who helped with the construction of Todaiji
	1:00 PM	Lunch or brunch at nearby ramen stores	Umoto Shoten	If we are hungry, which I think we will likely be
	1:45 PM	Walk up to Bell Tower	Todaiji Shoro (Bell Tower)
	2:00 PM	Walk down to Urasando walkway	Urasando Path	It leads to Nigatsu-do hall, this path has a lot of photographers taking pictures and it'll likely be crowded.
	2:20 PM	Walk into Nigatsu-do hall and Nigatsu-do Teahouse.	Nigatsu-do Hall	Its name literally means second month hall. It's at an elevation, at the balcony of the Nigatsu-do hall you can see over the city of Nara, Todai-ji's temple, a great panoramic view. In this Nigatsu-do hall, you can offer money (coins) inside the box, bring the cloth forward to ring the "bell" and offer your prayers by holding your palms together. The Nigatsu-do hall enshrines two statues of Kannon, or secret Buddhas. They are hidden from public view and even the priests aren't able to see it. Nigatsu-do hall's name comes from the Shuni-e ritual which is traditionally held on the second lunar month, a highlight of the ritual is the Fire Ceremony, to which they have large torches and they spin it along the railway. Hence you can even see burn marks and grooves on the railing.
	3:00 PM	Walk to the Sacred Well		Can't find the Google maps but nearby there's a sacred well that's used to give water to the Shuni-e ritual or ceremony. The well is obviously closed to the public, unless the ceremony happens.
	3:15 PM	Walk to Hokkedo Hall	Hokkedo Hall	This is the oldest hall of Todaiji. It ties significant history to Emperor Shu. Long story short apparently this Emperor Shu had a first-born, and he fell sick fast, so Emperor Shu ordered the construction of the Great Buddha to protect his son from illness. Unfortunately the son still died but the hall was built dedicated to Kannon worship. It's meant to signify parents love for their children. To enter the hall you need 800 yen. Inside Hokkedo Hall, there's the Fukukensaku Kannon. It's a Kannon that's built to help the little boy recover. A lot of significance and historical ties to Emperor Shu. Inside there, there's also the eight guardians of Kannon. They are national guards that protect the Kannon, and got formation one. National guards are positioned North East South West of the Kannon. In front of the Kannon, they are the Deva Kings or Rongo Rishiki, the Nandaimon Gate guardians.
	4:00 PM	Walk to Tamukeyama Hachimangu Shrine	Tamukeyama Hachimangu Shrine	This shinto shrine is home to the God of Hachiman. It's supposedly the God that watches over Todai-ji temple. There's a tradition that still happens every year where priests from Todaiji and the shrine join in and celebrate to re-enact how Hachiman came down. Long story short, Emperor Shu wanted to protect its people.
	4:20 PM	Walk down south to enjoy the rest of Nara park.		From now on there's no more history lesson, free and easy to enjoy the rest of Nara park.
	6:00 PM	Depart back to JR Nara or Kintetsu Nara station		Return train, we can just take the normal JR train, Yamatoji Line, OR we take the Kintetsu-Nara line that goes back to Namba.
